1. This Office has reviewed the CCS/ICS draft report regarding the DCI Study of Intelligence Community Counterintelligence Analysis Efforts contained in reference. We earlier provided a much more detailed response in our memorandum of 14 September 1983, which is still considered to be pertinent to the issue. [redacted]

2. As we noted in our detailed response, this Office is a major contributor to Counterintelligence (CI) analysis for this Agency. Additionally, we regularly provide CI reports, in the form of 175 memoranda per year, to several Intelligence Community agencies. At the same time, we provide responses to Congress regarding CI-related subjects which average 150 per year. In the area of defensive CI briefings, during fiscal year 1983, we provided a comprehensive briefing program to [redacted] CIA contractors which included [redacted] briefed personnel. While we do not practice Multidisciplinary Analysis (MDA) per se, we regularly subscribe to MDA reporting from several IC agencies and conduct extensive CI liaison with the FBI, State Department, and to a lesser extent, with DoD agencies and the U.S. Secret Service.
